ba - affix - /ba/ -

Roman: ba

sex marking pre-fix (for the occasions when it is necessary)
Nota Bene: The elves of this time don't think of the categorization of sex as being a particularly important distinction. They spend much of their time not able to procreate, thus their culture's view of non-procreative sexual acts doesn't centre on the necessity of procreative success.

Grammar

Basics

Pronunciation Guide

Vowels:

All vowels are pronounced

a -> as the 'a' in father

i -> as the 'i' in machine

u -> as the 'u' in lute

e -> as the 'e' in

o -> as the 'o' in oh

Consonants:

The following consonants are pronounced as they are found in English:

b, f, g, h, l, m, n, p, s, t, v, w

One consonant sits on its own:

j - usually sounds like 'y' in yet

The following consonant pairs are considered one sound:

ch - as the ch in loch pronounced by a Scot

ng - as the ng in ring

tl - this starts as a t sound which becomes a l sound without removing the tip of the tongue from the roof of the mouth

hw - as the sound wh in where as pronounced by certain people from the South Eastern United States

Geminated Consonants which sound different from their default pronunciations:

ff -> v

jj -> dzh (English j)

hh -> glottal stop

rr -> trilled r

ss -> z when it is word final

Other sound changes:

j -> 'i' between a vowel and a consonant when it is the word final consonant. e.g. disujbuac
-> disuibuac

j -> dzh (english j) when it is the word-final consonant. eg disujej -> disuyej

Roots

Each word in this language consists of a two, three, or four consonant root.

Affixes

In the Proto-elven language there are a significant number of affixes.

For the most part affixes do not conjugate or otherwise change morphologically. The one notable exception is the part-of infix which will replace the vowel within the affix.

Affixes also agglutinate, forming compounds which affect the meaning of the affix, therefore the translation of the affixed word.

Common compound affixes

che - The negation suffix is used with other affixes to mark a lesser form of the affix's meaning

checatl - less big chehatl - less small

for example:

difud + catl = mountain (big land)

difud + checatl = hill (less big land)

ua - part-of infix is used to turn one of the relative location infixes into a part of word, for instance disuj + bic + ua = disujbuac = tree branch (the upper part of a tree)

disuj + bic + ua + rab + ua = disujbuacruab = leaves (the outer part of the upper part of a tree (an example of stacking affixes))

Regular Verbs

Regular Verbs:

Root --> Verbal Form + person/number affix + Tense Auxilliary Verb + Mood Aspect affix

Affixes which apply to regular verbs do so in the following order

Person + Number

Person:

First: o

Second: e

Third: a

Number:

Singular: ca

Dual: ra

Plural: ta

Collective: wa

Example:

First Person Collective: owa

So the verbal phrase at this point would look like:

cuttowa: We all do

juttowa: We all go

Verb Tenses:

Pluperfect:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + (deep) past [do] + (deep)past [go]

example:

disuja(nominative singular ending) duđuca cettu juttu

The piece of wood had burned

Perfect:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + (deep) past [do]

example:

disuja(nominative singular ending) duðoca cetto

The piece of wood burned long ago

Future Perfect:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + (deep) past [do] + non-past[go]

example:

disuja(nominative singular ending) duðoca cetto jette

The piece of wood will have burned

Past Progressive:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + non-past [do] + (deep) past [go]

disuja(nominative singular ending) duðoca cete jetto

The piece of wood was burning

Non-past:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + non-past [do]

example

disuja(nominative singular ending) duðoca cete

The piece of wood burns

Present Progressive:

Verbal Root + person/number affix + non-past [do] + non-past [go]

example

disuj(nominative singular ending) duðoca cete jette

The piece of wood is burning

Auxiliary Verbs

Auxilliary Verbs

[do, go]

stem = C1 + e + C2C2

Tenses:

Deep Past: stem + 0

Past: stem + u

Non-Past: stem + e

Nouns

Nouns have a couple of important features.

First is animacy, how alive-like the noun is.

The second is harmony, how harmonious (in terms of in harmony with nature, and society) the noun is.

The first vowel infixed into the root marks animacy.

a = animate

i = inanimate

[This was completely accidental]

The second vowel infixed into the root marks the harmony of the noun

u = harmonious

i = dischordant [yes I realize that I have misspelled discordant (I do this deliberately)]

As an example take the diconsonantal root d-th

dathud - Animate Harmonious - Hearth Fire (also controlled fire elemental)

dathid - Animate Dischordant - Destructive (Wild) fire (also out-of-control fire elemental)

dithud - Inanimate Harmonious - Coals

dithid - Inanimate Dischordant - Ash

Nouns of all stripes decline for number and case and can take affixes to mark a number of things [Declensions can be found in the lexicon so I will not be explaining them here].

Below are the common affixes and how they affect the nouns they are attached to.
It is important to note that the noun declines before the suffix is added.

ba - bacavis - female land predator (eg lioness)
bic - dathudet bic - above the fire catl - dathud catl - bonfire {large controlled fire} char - dathudet char - outside (around) the fire
cu - dathudet cu - away from the fire dhu - dhudathud - heat (abstraction of fire)
ga - gacavis - male land predator (eg lion) hatl - dathud hatl - candle flame (small controlled fire)
hu - dathudet hu - towards the fire
rab - dathudet rab - inside the fire tab - dathudet tab - under the fire to - dathudto - place of the fire - hearth

Animate nouns, specifically those for living creatures, mark "child of" by adding the diminutive suffix.

for example:

dofcavis - Land predator dofcavishatl - Land predator cub

rohcavus - bird
rohcavushatl - chick rohvaushuatl - egg

Adjectives

Adjectives must match the noun that it modifies in case and number.

The adjectival conjugation tables are found with the lexicon

There is a prefix which will turn an adjective into an adverb

For Example:

la + desij -> woodenly (stiffly)

la + hesun -> wetly

la + dhu + hesun -> flowingly

Further to that the augmentative and diminutive affixes will modify the adjective in the predicable way.
